The pond was too close to the farm house for the miscreants to have used dynamtie and the belief is that poison was resorted to. An effort will be made to discover the guilty persons.

Monthly Crop Report.

The monthly report issued by the State Agricultural Department will bring good news to the corn and tobacco growers as well as other farmers. September's report, issued by Commissioner Vreeland says:

'Notwithstanding a very late and unfavorable spring, under favorable weather during the month of August crops are maturing rapidly, and while they are late, unless we have early frosts, the prospects are excellent for a good crop of corn and tobacco. Threshing of all grain is about completed. The yield of wheat was small, averaging ten bushels to the acre for the State, the quality being good.

"The prospects for a full crop of corn is 88 per cent, and the condition of the crop is 91 per cent.

"Fall plowing has progressed nicely in most sections, and the indications are that the usual average of wheat will be sown.

"Some tobacco has been cut and on sticks, but the most of it is still growing, and late plantings are still in danger of early frosts.

"Meadows have yielded an average crop of hay and it has been saved as a

Q. Is the present protective tariff nceessary?

A. No: it is about twice as high as would be necessary to cover the entire labor cost of protected manufacturers. The fact that we are exporting an increasing amount of manufactures is proof that our industries do not need the present protection. And it must be remembered that our manufactures have the benefit of the freight when the foreigner brings his goods here, while the foreign competitor has the benefit of the freight when we export. And it must also be remembered that the tariff on all kinds of material, or machinery and on food and clothing increases the cost of articles manufactured here. PARADISE FISHES.

These Creatures Live In Cdd Mestu Composed of Air Bubbles.

Paradise fishes come from Japan, and their nests are very odd indeed, for they are composed of air bubbles. Unlike goldfish, they will breed and raise their young in an aquarium or even in a glass globe, and they raise three or four broods each year,

Ordinarily the male paradise fish is of a dull silvery color, but when he goes a-courting he puts on a brilliant coat, striped with streaks of red, blue and green. When the female fish is ready to lay eggs, she builds her nest by swallowing air and making bubbles, which are held together by a sticky secretion that comes from her mouth.

The eggs rise in the water and find a resting place among the air bubbles, to which they cling. The female fish tries to swallow the eggs, but her husband drives her away and keeps guard until the eggs are hatched. If the air bub-

The "Casa Napo- the one to Francis I., king of the two leon" is one of the-or, I should say, the principal building in Ajaccio. It is a solid three story building, with gray stucco walls and a number of large windows. Situated in the old part of the town, one would scarcely find it were it not for the boys who tender their services to guide the stranger to the place.

Although plundered in 1793 by the partisans of Paoli, the heroic Corsican fighter for liberty, the house still contains a few reminiscences of the great warrior. Why an American Showman Could Not Get It For His Museum.

When the eminent French writer Ferdinand Brunetiere visited the United States some years ago, lecturing at ties, he had an amusing experience, which he described in the recollections of his American tour which he afterward published. Our Washington Man.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 4.—Washington is undeniably dull these days. With the President still away on his vaca-tion, as also practically every member of his cabinet, things are indeed slow, and were it not for the local building trades strikes, An occasional cutting or shooting affray, and the prolonged discussion of the recent speeches of President Roosevelt and Secretary Taft, life here would be unbearable at this time. Of course, there's the anti-vice crusade of the police department against the proprietors of bucketshops and handbook men, but even this diversion has grown somewhat stale. As for politics, so many conflicting reports reach here, that at first glance it would seem there are enough Presidential candid-ates to fill not only the Roosevelt successorship, but to make up a cabinet as well. Every section seems to have a different "favorite son" and every visiting poiltician brings sanguniary reports of the progress of his man's boom in this State or that county or Each one of them is so sure his candidate will win, that Washingtonians are a bit bewildered. The United States is not the only country that is striving to bring its waterways up to a high standard of navigability. Far from it. Reports reaching the State Department from United States consuls in every part of the world indicate that waterway development is universally conceded to be the highway to an increased and stimulated commerce. The old plan of a ship canal across the narrowest part of Scotland has been revived, and business interests of Glasgow and Edinburgh are strongly in favor of it. France has similar schemes under way and in contemplation, millions being expended for a single project that will connect Lyon and Marseille. Germany, also, has her big improvement and now Russia, with all her evolutions and anarchistic uprisings, and with her great war debt, has come forawrd with a gigantic improvement project that calls for the expenditure of $130,000,000. In the Matter of Trouble With Tax System.

A Tax Commission Has Just Made a Report That Is of Interest In This State.

Missouri has been laboring under a difficulty in its tax system nearly exactly similar to that of Kentucky. A tax commission has been at work in of the situation short of a constitution favor of the amendment. tional amendment that will give the legislature greater liberty in dealing with the question; but it also points out that such an amendment is chiefly desirable because it will lead to separation of the sources of state revenue from the sources of county revenue.

The comments of the Missouri tax commission are so pertinent to the situation in Kentucky that the following extracts will be found of interest: "We all agreed that the first step in any tax reform is the separation of the sources of state and local revenue. This change would not require the exemption of any class of property from taxation. The proposed change may be effected by the adoption of a single constitutional amendment.

"The general features of this separation of the sources of state and local revenues may be briefly summarized. The state would discontinue the levy of a general property tax upon the real and personal property of the state, leaving the assessment and collection of this tax to the counties and municipalities for local purposes. This would make a saving of the large expense incident to the present dual system. It would also dispense with the work of the State Board of Equalization connected with the attempted equalization of assessments of real and personal property among the counties of the state.

"The state would thereafter derive its revenue through its inherent general power of taxation upon general subjects of taxation, as by licenses, corporation taxes, inspection fees and such other forms of taxation as the general assembly may determine.

"The different rates of assessment in the different counties, enforced by the different demands for local revenue, would no longer produce inequality in taxation with reference to the state tax. The remedy proposed is, in our opinion, the only effective remedy. Each community could fix its own rate of valuation as its local needs may require, without subjecting its citizens to the injustice of being compelled to pay an undue share of state taxation.

in the variation of the rates of assessment upon property according to the local needs of the community, some counties paying taxes on 70 or 80 per cent of the real value of property, and others only 20 or 30 per cent. The report of the Tax Commission of 1903 says: It is in the bounds of truth to say that no two counties of the state have the same rule for the assessment of all classes of property, and generally speaking, there is absolutely no uniformity as to the proportion of the cash value taken as a basis of the assessed value. Some counties value real estate, so far as our reports show, as low as 30 per cent of its selling price, while others have a 90 per cent basis. Some assess real estate at 331/2 per cent, and tangible personal property at 50 per cent. The commission concluded that there was an absolute want of equality in taxation.

"This inequality can not be remedied by the State Board of Equalization, for the obvious reason that the high rate of assessment in certain counties, including the city of St. Louis, is enforced by the pressing demand for revenue for local requirements. The board can not raise the assessments of the counties which make a low valuation, as that would

of state and local revenue. "Under the plan proposed, the state would retain all of its inherent powers of taxation, except as to the general property tax upon real and personal property, which would be assessed and collected by counties and cities for local purposes. The state now levies a tax upon insurance companies, dramshops, express companies, sundry corporations, license and inspection taxes, and a collateral inheritance tax. What other forms of taxation may be adopted will be for the General Assembly, in its discretion, to determine. The system proposed requires no change in the existing limitations upon the tax rates of the counties, cities and school districts.

"The change recommended requires no modification of the methods of assessing the property of railroads and other public service corporations by the State Board of Equalization That system is statutory and its continuance or modification is subject to the control of the General Assembly. Should the present system be continued, whereby the assessed valuation made by the state board is apportioned to the counties, the General Assembly should continue the present state tax upon such valuation and provide for its direct payment into the state treasury.'

hink about what kind of overhauling new wants done, he inevitably reaches the conclusion that the starting point is an amendment to the constitution of the state.

At Work in Ohio,

At Work In Ohio, This sort of unrest as to taxation widespread. In Ohio the State Board of Commission, which has an official existence, engaged in holding hearings all over the state and giving citizens of every occupation at chance to air their views on the subject. The difficulty in Ohio is very similar to the difficulty in Kentucky. They are restricted there to the general property tax. They are pushing an amendment which will allow the legislature to separate the sources of revenue; that is, to raise the state revenue from certain classes of property to be taxed for local purposes only. Ohio has tried before to get amendment to its constitution along these lines but her felled but existence. Missouri and in line with the tax commissions of other progressive states it has found no solution of the difficulties of the situation short of a constitu-

Missouri Is Busy.

In Missouri a special tax commission, of which Frederick N. Hudson was chairman, recommended to the legislature the separation of the sources of state and local revenue, and proposed a constitutional amendment providing for such separation ment providing for such separation, giving greater discretion to the legislature and also giving to localities lo-cal option in matters of taxation. The amendment was adopted by the last legislature of Missouri and will be voted on by the people of the state at the next general election. This amendment provides that the sources of state and local revenue shall be separated by the year 1909, and that thereafter the counties in the state may tax or exempt for local purposes any class of property, in the discre-tion of the county court. It will be ob-served that both Ohio and Missouri are striving for the system of separating local and state sources of revenue. This is the system that has been in successful operation for many years in Pennsylvania, and it seems the logical and only satisfactory solution of the present complicated tax situation.

Minnesota Makes Progress.

The people of Minnesota at the last election held in that state ratified a constitutional amendment, which practically removed all limitations as to tically removed all limitations as to the power of the legislature in rela-tion to taxation. The legislature at its session last winter passed two measures recommended by the gover-nor for the purpose of putting into effect the provisions of the constitu-tional amendment. One of these provided for a permanent tax commission to recommend amendments to the revenue laws and to perform certain administrative work. The other measure imposed a recording tax on mortgages of one-half of one per cent. In this mortgage tax Minnesota is following ing the experiment successfully tried by the state of New York. Under this plan the tax of one-half of one per cent is collected when the mortgage is recorded, and the mortgage is thereafter exempt from taxation. Old mortgages may be registered on payment of one-half of one-per cent tax and are there. may be registered on payment of one-half of one per cent tax, and are there-after also exempt from further taxa-tion. In both Minnesota and New York this plan of taxing mortgages has been found at once productive of increased revenue. It has some very decided advantages over the plan which Kentucky is now trying, the chief visible effect of which at pres-ent is to tax holders of mortgages who live in the state, while executing ay an undue share of state taxation. live in the state, while exempting holders of mortgages on Kentucky property who live outside the state. In Illinois the Civic Federation of Chicago has procured the introduction of an amendment to the constitution of the state very similar to that adopted in Minnesota Activity In Other States.

In the state of Washington there has been very considerable agitation of the question of taxation, and the last legislature passed a measure affecting the method of taxing intangible personality. One result of separating different kinds of property for different rates of taxation and for different purposes is that the tax burden can in this way be just to each class of property according to its burden box property according to its burden-bearing capacity.

In the state of Oklahoma a clause was inserted in the constitution very similar to the tax provisions of the Minnesota constitution. A number of other states have tax commissions at work. Texas has just been overhauling its tax laws. The tax commission of California has just made its report. In the state of New York a tax reform league has been at work for nearly fifteen years, with the result that some very wise amendments to the tax laws of that state have been made Needs Thorough Study.

No state needs to have the tax question thoroughly studied and studied in the light of the experience of other states, as well as with due regard to its own experience, more than does Kentucky. For fifteen years since the new constitution was adopted, we have striven hard to realize that dream of uniformity in taxation which be imposing an unnecessary burden upon those communities.

"We see no remedy for this existing inequality and resulting injustice, exon some classes of property, while some classes of property have gone almost scot free. The amount of money, stocks and bonds reported for taxation is ridiculously small. The falsity of the tax returns betrays itself upon comparison with the reports of the deposits in the banks. The only kind of personal property that does not esdeposits in the banks. The only kind of personal property that does not escape taxation is that visible, tangible personal property, found chiefly on the farm. The farmer can not hide his horses, cattle and farming implements, so he has to pay, while the man in town can hide his money, or its atocks and honds and escape his his stocks and bonds, and escape his share of the burden. This will always be the case while human nature remains as it is. It is incumbent upon Kentucky to find some way of deriv-ing a revenue from this elusive class kentucky to find some way of deriving a revenue from this elusive class of property.

It will probably take a long time for Kentucky to reach the point of believing in the policy of separating the sources of revenue, selecting one class of property from which to raise its state revenues, another class of property from which to raise its state revenues, another class of property from which to raise its state revenues the experience of all other states is to be belied by the experience of Kentucky, that is what we are to come to some time, though it may be far in the future. We can not well continue to adhere to a system that is being abandoned by other states and which, if persisted in, will put us in the position of handicapping our property owners of every class with a burdonsome tax system, which will seriously injure them in the sharp competition with the less heavily burdened property owners of other states. It is, at least, worth while for Keutucky to be studying the question and unink seriously about it.

Imperative.

An infantry soldier named Scheiber died on the last day of his leave in his home in a little village in upper Austria. The village burgomaster, himself an old soldier, remembered that the commanding officer of Scheiber's regiment should be notified of the death, and he proceeded to do so in the following letter:

"The undersigned village burgomaster requests on behalf of the soldier Scheiber two days' more leave, as otherwise his interment cannot take place."-Vienna Press.

Remarkable Vision.

An old woman who had been in the infirmary with sore eyes told a neighbor that the doctor took out her eyes and scraped them with lances. "Nonsense, woman," replied the other. "Ye shouldn't believe all ye hear. The doctors would only be stuffing ye." "Oh, but ye know it's no use saying that, for I awakened up out of the chloroform and saw both of my eyes lying

His Clever Son.

The Dad-My son, I want to tell you that the secret of my success, as it must be of any man's, is hard work. I- The Son-Sh! Dad, I don't care to hear other people's secrets, and I am too much of a gentleman to take advantage of information gained that way. Say no more.-Cleveland Leader.

An Insinuation Feared.

Clergyman - Madam, you must be consoled with the thought that your husband is at rest. Widow-Do you mean that he didn't have any before he died?-New York Press.

All must respect those who respect themselves.-Beaconsfield.
